THE GLASS OF FASHION.

What the Dear Creatures are Wearing.

The London Queen, in its Paris correspondence, October 24th, says the two colors likely to be fashionable during the winter are both becoming to brunettes; at the same time they have been adopted by blondes, simply because they do not find them unbecoming. A woman with golden hair is the ideal type of beauty, and every color should become her. Poppies and corn flowers are very effective, with waving corn. The two fashionable colors are ruby of all shades, from the light rubin labai, as it is called, to the dark garnet, named muscara; the second favorite is yellow, from the marigold shade, up to the dye called Aurora, which is a very pale tint.

Invitations for balls, receptions, etc., are now gotten up on silks and satins. The "Marie Antoinette" is the new style of breakfast slippers for ladies. It is made of black kid, with very high, narrow heels, is high and pointed at the front, and is cut with a flap upon the back of the foot, which is ornamented with a strap and buckle.

Young ladies are having indoor dresses made of scarlet or blue merino, to be worn with fancy over-dresses of black or clear muslin. The over-dresses are low and trimmed with ruffles of the same. They are rounded at the sides and looped up high with bows of silk or muslin.

A Paris paper publishes the following description of a dress for paying calls: Robe in plain violet silk trimmed below with a wide flounce in black silk, and finished by a wide violet flange and a black stripe in curves. The paleot with wide facings turned back is also edged with curve stripes and violet flange. The girdle and tassels are in violet, the small bonnets are in violet silk with black lace, red roses and a sparkling garnet.

For autumn costumes the pelérine and scarf rival in the most varied shades of the paleot, which, also made with gath-ers, hanging folds and caught-up trim-mings, steps not in the least in the back ground, and preserves more than ever in the present fashions its earlier admirers.

Mademoiselle Batillon, of the Rue de Chateaubault, gives the following pattern for an evening dress: The plain high top of this robe with a half train and draped double skirt, is of gray Foulard cut square at the neck, the latter being supplied with a chemise of transparent muslin puffs and sleeves of the same; round the lower edge of the skirt goes a flounce, 6.8 inches wide, of the same stuff as the dress; the rest of the trim-ming consists of black silk stripes and black silk buttons. Lilac creol (bell) fringe mark out behind the lower edge of the draped double skirt with the square trimmed top, and hangs out in almost a double length under the large silk bows of the skirt trimming.

The style of this dress can also serve as a pattern for one of the so much admired over-skirts of muslin, gingham or net.

THE FAMILY NEWSPAPER.—Dr. Ben Franklin remarks that a man as often gets two dollars for one he spends in forming his mind, as he does for a dollar he lays out in any other way. A man eats a pound of sugar and his gone, and the pleasure he has enjoyed is ended, but the information he gets from a newspaper is treasured up to be enjoyed anew, and to be used whenever occasion or inclination call for it. A newspaper is not the wisdom of one man or two men; it is the wisdom of the age, and of past ages too. A family without a newspaper is always a year behind the times in general information; besides they can never think much nor find much to talk about. And then there are the little ones growing up without any taste for reading.

Who, then, would be without a newspaper, and who would read one regularly without paying for it?

How SOON FORGOTTEN.—So lately dead; so soon forgotten! 'Tis the way of men. Men take us by the hand and are anxious about the health of our bodies, and laugh at our jokes; and we really think, like the fly on the wheel, that we have something to do with the turning of the earth. The sun does not stop for our funeral; every thing goes on as usual; we are not missed on the streets; men still laugh at our jokes though told by other lips; one or two memories still hold our name and form. But the crowd moves in the daily circle, and in three days the great wave of time sweeps over our foot-prints and washes out the last vestige of our lives.

HUMAN BROTHERHOOD.—FRATERNAL VIEW OF PHYSICS' POLICY.—Every little straw is gathered now to show the probable policy of the General after his inauguration. Here are two of them:—In the railroad car from Chicago the other day a gentleman said to Grant, "General, I hope when you are in office you will let us have peace in fact as well as in name." To this the General answered, "You may be sure I will, sir. I will make peace and a solid peace, which will satisfy all good men North, South, East and West." A brother of General Grant, who lives in Chicago, is reported to have said a few days ago that Grant intends to enforce the reconstruction laws to the very letter, so far as that duty may be bequeathed him by the existing administration. Perhaps by the time of his inauguration the whole business of reconstruction will have been disposed of, but if not, according to this fraternal authority, Gen. Grant will execute them strictly. The reason alleged for this is that Grant holds that "the will of the people is the law of the land," and that in the election just decided the people expressed their will to have these reconstruction measures enforced by the Republican party.

WOMAN—FEMALE, OWING TO THE peculiar and important relations which they sustain, their peculiar organization, and the others they perform, are subject to many diseases, and are in need of no small degree of their happiness and welfare, for none can be happy who are ill. But only one of these various female complaints can long be suffered to run on without involving the general health of the individual, and one long producing permanent sickness and premature decline. Nor is it pleasant to have a female suffer from such various delicate affections, and only upon the most urgent necessity will a true wife and mother consent to have her suffer to do this. The sex will then think of placing in their hands simple specific remedies, which will cure the various diseases, and during almost every one of these troublesome complaints peculiar to the sex, the female will find relief in the use of these simple remedies, and hundreds of others apply valiantly to druggists and doctors, who either merely mutilate them with the hope of a cure, or apply remedies which make them worse. I would not wish to assert anything that would do injustice to the druggist, but I am obliged to say that though it may be produced from excessive excitement of the powers of life, by laborious employment, by late hours, and by non-proper menstruation, the use of tea and coffee, and frequent childbirth it is far from being a disease, and it is not necessary to the female to consult a doctor, or to have her system treated by medicine, when reviewing the causes of these diseases, we find that they are not diseases, but the result of the female's own neglect of the simple remedies which she can procure for herself. It is but simple justice to the subject to state that a few of the many ailments which women are so largely afflicted with, and which are the cause of so much suffering, and which, consequently, are the cause of so much suffering to the entire human family. The mania that exists for precocious education and marriage, causes the young female to be reared for corporeal developments to be wasted and perverted in the restraints of dress, the Oysters, Nuts, Flour, and the usual variety kept in such establishments, which he is prepared to sell cheap, and would be thankful for a liberal share of patronage. TOWN TALK.

We submit the truth that there are but few small towns which present greater natural advantages than Hickman. Our location is healthy, river and rail-road advantages good, and back country unsurpassed in richness and fertility, and everything would demand a prosperous town at this place. The very fact that the town has existed, doing a large business through several years of misfortune, caused by fires, flood, and war, aided by the jabs of rival interest and the illiberal spirit of many property owners, is proof evident of the absolute necessity for a town at this point. Since the war, Hickman has improved greatly, substantially, permanently; but in almost every instance necessity has forced the improvement, that is they were made independent of any encouragement offered by property owners. Possibly, there has been towns which grew into cities solely by reason of their location and natural advantages, but it was before this day of railroads, and telegraphs, and newspapers, when trade is directed from one point to another in a thousand different ways. Ten years ago Hickman would scarcely recognize Paducah as a rival, and now the positions are reversed. The enterprising and public spirit of Paducah business men and property owners have changed that little steamboat landing of 1830 to a flourishing and promising young city of 8,000 or 10,000 population. These facts address themselves to every citizen of Hickman—especially to every owner of property. We must have more enterprise—more public spirit. Do the owners of town lots see no incentive to action in the yearly depreciation of their property in value? The great bane of Hickman has been that its future has always appeared so encouraging that parties have bought and held unimproved town lots on speculation, but it is now a patent truth that unless a change of policy is inaugurated, all will be losers.

Some method must be adopted to induce population and trade, or our town will continue to decay, and the struggle along unremunerative to any. Our citizens instead of acting altogether for individual gain, must cultivate a public spirit and work together for the prosperity of our town and community.

These measures must be inaugurated and sustained by actual property holders. Many enterprises have been suggested in this community and failed, simply because the really interested parties declined to assist, and the projects have afterwards been laughed at as visionary by the very men who would have been mostly benefited, and who should have sustained them. These facts and citizens need only look to the value of their property for proof. Have not our lessons in selfishness been sufficient? Some of our enterprising men have been derided by property owners, and denominated enthusiasts and visionary men—because their efforts for the public good have not succeeded, but the property owners however much they may deride is the greatest loser by their non-success.

A new policy must be inaugurated, and it must be done by the owners of property. Their salvation depends on it. Nature, and an industrious people are willing to help them. We must have population; and that can be obtained by our property owners uniting, and offering proper inducements to people to come amongst us and stay with us.

Several instances have occurred directly under our own observation where mechanics, and men of small means, who had saved up several hundred dollars surplus, would have built dwelling houses, but for the fact that the lot on which they had their ready money to buy the lot. Could they have bought lots on long time, they would have been able to improve the same, they would have become permanent citizens, identified with us in interest, and an active working capital to the town. Would not the lot owner directly be a greater gainer, drawing his lots remain vacant, paying heavy taxes, with only the hope in the future of obtaining $500 or $1000 down cash for it.

Everybody knows that had this policy been adopted, acted upon, and published to the world, hundreds of houses would have been erected here where there has not been one.

Men of small means, mechanics, artisans, workmen, are the men we want, and can induce. One of these "small builders" is worth more to a community than a man of five times his means who refuses to make any improvements. The first is one of us—a citizen—permanently identified with us in interest, and stays with us through sunshine and storm, while the other is a speculator, "on the make," and picks up his traps and leaves at the first ill wind. The first deserves our encouragement, while the other should be bound to pay for the rent of his land.

Some people argue, "if we could just induce the establishment of some large manufacturing establishment," the people would follow. This may possibly be true, but we "just can't." We consider this a mistaken idea. These large establishments follow people, and not the people them until they have proven success. First, then, we must have an organized, well understood plan of inducing settlers, and secondly a liberal manner of encouraging them after they have come.

The strong must aid the weak, at least until they get a foothold. If a poor man desires to build a residence, he should have the lot at a fair price and on long time.

If he desires to establish a shop for the manufacture of shoes, saddles, furniture, wagons, carriages, he should have the united patronage of our people. The man who sends to a distance for any article manufactured by his fellow-citizen should be held as an enemy to the town. Besides they should be encouraged by law. Every department of trade, especially mechanical, should be protected from the "money bulls" and speculators, who with their big capital crush out our young, struggling manufacturing establishments.

Hickman has some such establishments of which we may justly boast. We mention Hertzwick, Bullock & Co., wagon makers; Chas. Oswald, P. J. Weiner, Furniture makers; A. S. Anderson, Saddlery and harness; Kirkpatrick & Bro., carriage makers; and others. These houses have established themselves against the combined opposition of home capital and foreign competition. Will not all admit that these houses are a benefit to the town and to every business man in it? If all our home patronage could be centered upon these houses, the small establishments would be enlarged and improved, their working force increased, and their prices reduced, and every man, merchant, grocer, farmer, professional man, all to extend this encouragement. Any thinking man can see this without our enlarging on the point.

We are dependent upon our City Council for many needed reforms. For instance, in assessing taxes, owners of vacant lots should be assessed to the full extent allowed by the charter, and parties building new houses encouraged by lessening or relieving their taxes for a certain time. This would cause lot owners to sell at reasonable prices, and encourage men to improve their property. They should encourage home institutions by favorable legislation. Old houses and croakers must be made to stand out of the way of the obvious prosperity of the city.

Another view is that our business men must work to keep and increase the trade from the back country. To this end, roads to and from town, in every direction, is absolutely essential. Our merchants should aid the county and our county dealers in building and keeping these roads in good condition. One in particular, known as the Robinson A. Keith turnpike, across Ohio bottom, opening to us the rich trade of Dyer and Gibson counties, demand their consideration.

These views are stated plainly, with out any attempt to embellish or make them sound pleasant to the ear. Our people must understand facts. We need enterprise. We need public spirit. We must combine all interests and work together for the common good. For the want of united action the town is languishing, mechanics shops paralyzed, home industry burdened, and every class of people dispirited. Thousands of dollars are lying idle in the pockets of farmers and citizens, which is needed every day in commerce and improvements, only for want of a safe and profitable channel in which to invest it, and which would unite in an effort. No town ever did or can prosper without such exertions. Shall we try? Let our property holders unite together, compare the past history of the town, its present condition, and its future prospects, and determine for themselves, for it is with them, whether they will inaugurate a new policy for prosperity, or continue in the beaten track.

PROMPTNESS.—Persons having furniture repaired can save considerable money by calling at Oswald's Furniture Manufactory.

NEWSPAPER CHANGE.—Messrs. Harney, Hughes & Co., have sold the Louisville Democrat to John E. Hatcher and W. Henry Perrin. Under the new arrangement John E. Hatcher becomes the managing editor of the paper, and will continue it as an earnest advocate of Democratic principles. John E. Hatcher is better known in the newspaper world as G. Washington Briggs, a ready writer, and one of the most go-ahead, active journalists of the age.

NEW MUSIC.—D. P. Faulds, No. 70 Main street, Louisville, publisher and dealer in music and musical instruments of all kinds, has sent us "Walking in the Zoo," by A. Lee, a song from the series of the latest and best English comic songs arranged by H. A. Gilbert, and the "Fairy Eva Polka," from "Little Fairies' Folio," or "Pretty Little Pieces from Pretty Little Fingers," by W. C. Chainey—both of them charming specimens of their kind.

GENERAL LEE is in request. The new Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company wants him for President, and a New York Life Insurance Company desires him to superintend its Southern agencies for $10,000 a year.
